CURRENCY STRENGTH OVERSHADOWS MART

Most of Important European Exchanges Rise to Highest Prices in More Than a Year

New York, Feb. 8. — Operations in the financial markets today were overshadowed by the strength of international currency. Practically all the important European exchanges rose to highest prices in one to two and a half years, again under lead of British remittances.

Minor or speculative rails, and a few standard transportation, furnished much of the activity and strength shown by the stock market. The general list was inclined to ease from the outset, and closed with a heavy tone, coincident with call money's rise from five to five and a half per cent.

Low-grade motors, the cheaper oils, food specialties and the chain store group were the special targets of the shorts, whose concerted attacks upon those shares met with little opposition.

Buying of rails was credited to a group of local traders, their bullish attitude apparently being based on the better showing recently made by many roads, especially grangers and coal carriers, these featuring the day's movement.

Steels and equipments were lifted until the final hour, when Gulf States, Crucible, Republic and Midvale reacted one to almost three points, with Baldwin, Studebaker, Mexican Petroleum, General Asphalt, Mercantile Marine preferred and American International.

The domestic bond market was irregular, convertible rails strengthening, with mixed gains and losses in Liberty issues.

MR. LYNCH CAN WELL SMILE

"Well I know what it is to huddle around, stiff and sore and crippled," says Albert Lynch.

"Until I started with Goldline Alternative, there was no relief. I had tried everything, but nothing seemed to help. I was in a bad way, and I was getting worse."

"I was so sore that I was unable to walk as well as ever, never a bit of rest. I was in a bad way, and I was getting worse."

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is very easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar-syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar-syrup.

Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel its take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and disappear. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded.

ALL STARS DEFEATED

Martucci's Team Loses to Delhi Emeralds, 37 to 32, in Hard Fought Game.

Martucci's All Stars were defeated, 37 to 32, by the Delhi Emeralds at Delhi Tuesday night in one of the fastest basketball games witnessed at the county seat of Delaware this season.

Although defeated the All Stars made the going hard for their opponents every minute of the war.

Fatten started off the scoring for the Oneonta team with a neat throw from the field and for about 14 minutes the All Stars held the lead. Then, with the score 13 to 5 against them, the Emeralds called time out for a conference and when they resumed play things started with Delhi doing the starting. When half time was called Delhi led 15 to 14.

Delhi led most of the time during the second half, but the All Stars did some remarkable work with but three minutes yet to go when they tossed in three in quick succession. Butts was the most brightly shining of the All Stars. Martucci also did some very clever guard work.

Thompson led in the scoring for Delhi, the All Stars finding it impossible to stop him.

Inflection Confers Immunity.

Dr. F. Neufeld, who was assistant to Koch, reviews in the Zeitschrift fuer Tuberculose (Leipzig) all the efforts that have been made to produce immunity from tuberculosis, and asserts that there is no method of vaccination applicable to man. The only immunity attainable is that from mild infection. Dr. A. von Wassermann comes to a similar conclusion.

The Leader.

It was the custom of the congregation to repeat the Twenty-third Psalm in concert, and Mrs. Armstrong's habit was to keep about a dozen words ahead all the way through. A stranger was asking one day about Mrs. Armstrong. "Who," he inquired, "was the lady who was already by the still waters while the rest of us were lying down in green pastures?"—Metropolitan.

The THREE MUSKETEERS

Adaption, "Cartuming," Research under Edward Knoblock Direction, under Fred Nibbs

This newest of "Dou's" productions, this most enchanting of all Dumas' vivid stories, this marvelous visualization of "The Three Musketeers" is truly a picture for everyone—for your family and every family. From it, the young can learn frankness, kindness, valor and generosity. The old can find forgetfulness of trouble and taste its antidote for sorrow. And all of us who believe in Life's drama, with its chapters of gaiety and wit, owe to Dumas a debt of gratitude.

WHERE NEW YORK FAILED.

Freedom of the press, we have to admit that New York as a state has failed in competition with other states. For the Empire state has lost 10 per cent of its woodworking industries to its neighbors. The wood manufacturing enterprises that are folding their tents and stealing away to other commonwealths will in probability grow to still larger proportions, according to Prof. H. L. Henderson of the New York State College of Forestry.

Prof. Henderson has just returned from an inspection of the lumbering regions of the south where he laid out a trip through centers of the lumber industries which will become a part of the instruction given to the junior class of the forestry college.

There are two chief reasons for the migration of the wood products industries, according to the observations made by Prof. Henderson. One is the labor question and the other is the freight problem. Negro labor is preferable to foreign labor secured in the north. The negro understands English, works steadily and efficiently and in many cases at a lower cost than the white labor of the north. The negro is not an agitator nor addicted to continuous demands upon his employer.

Freight on lumber is another element that makes impossible the manufacture of many wood products in the north at a profit. Most of the wood used in the industries in New York is imported from other states. A comparatively small percentage of the use of lower grades of lumber because of the large waste necessary in making low grade lumber into the finished product.

With the factory at the source of supply the manufactured product can be produced without the loss paid for freight on the wood. The process of manufacture and the finished article placed on the market at prices attractive to consumers. As a glance backward it will be remembered that New York once was the leading lumber producing state and that because of this fact it became the first state in the manufacture of wood products.

The story of forest devastation in New York is an excellent object lesson for all states. More than this, however, it is a suggestion as to what New York has to do if she is ever to regain her supremacy in woodworking. Otsego county, which has already planted over a million trees, has made a good start, better by far than many other counties more entirely in the forestry regions; and it will undoubtedly plant millions more. Forestry, in fact, is destined to become an important industry, and the next generation will doubtless see the many present barren hills covered again with an arboreal growth which, profitable in itself, will also renew to great degree the water supply which is now so much depleted.

SHANDAKEN TUNNEL CLAIMS

Schoharie Reservoir and Shandaken Tunnel Commission Will Hear Final Argument in April.

The Schoharie Reservoir and Shandaken Tunnel commission, composed of Senators Kelly and Messers. Mayhew and Shea, this week concluded the trial of the claim of the Ticonderoga Light and Power company against the city of New York for the condemnation of its power plant at Gilboa on the Schoharie river.

This claim, one of the most important involved in the construction of the reservoir and tunnel, is for $828,000. The trial occupied thirty days, and involved the examination of important electrical experts. Judge John P. Grant of Stamford is the president and principal owner of the property. The counsel for the company were Judge Clearwater and Harry H. Plummer. The city was represented by Assistant Corporation Counsel William Grogan. The commission will hear the final argument on submission at their April session.

In addition the commission heard the claim of the Conesville and Gilboa Telephone company for the condemnation of that part of their plant embraced within the taking line of the reservoir and tunnel. This company has extensive ramifications throughout that portion of the Catskill mountains of which Gilboa village is the commercial center. Judge Grant and Judge Clearwater represented the company, and William Grogan, assistant corporation counsel, appeared for the city.

CHARLES HARRISON PLEASES

Concert Given at Theatre Last Evening Under Auspices of Elks Glee Club Fully Justifies Title of Musical Feast of the Season. Vocalists, Pianist and Chorus Numbers. Fine Entertainment of Rare Merit.

Had the people of Oneonta fully realized just what a treat in store for them Charles Harrison and his supporting artists would have appeared last evening before an audience filling every seat in the Oneonta theatre. As it was the attendance was good but not nearly so large as the merit of the entertainment warranted. Admitted by the Elks as the musical treat of the season, the concert fully met the expectations of everyone.

Charles Harrison has appeared in the city before and his voice is familiar to every music lover through his phonograph records but never has his work made a greater appeal than last evening. His operatic numbers were especially well received and greatly enjoyed but the audience seemed to take keenest delight in the ballads and folk songs which he sang. His voice, a clear tenor with a satisfying fullness of tone and a surprising range, is admirably adapted to the rendering of the lighter, though not less worthy, forms of music.

Of his heavier numbers the familiar "M'Appari tutt' amor" from Flotow's Martha was perhaps best enjoyed and of the ballad numbers, of which several groups were rendered, "Where'er You Walk," "The Lass O' Killiecrankie" and "There is No Death" made the greatest appeal. Mr. Harrison was generous in responding to the persistent applause of the audience as meritorious as the listed selections. All in all, his work was of a character fully to justify the decision of the Elks to bring him to the city. The wish that his coming to Oneonta again will not be far distant will be joined in by many.

That the violinist, Rubi Davis, a young man but 18 years of age, has a bright future before him was the opinion of all who heard him render last evening selections of a difficult nature in a manner that would do justice to a Kreisler or an Elman. Many violinists, of a fame more or less wide, have played to Oneonta audiences but it is certain that no one of them made a better impression than Rubi Davis. His selections ranged from very difficult numbers, such as Bruch's "Concerto G Minor" to such better known pieces as "Solemn" and the "Meditation" from Thaïs. Throughout he preserved a satisfying richness and purity of tone and a technique remarkable in so youthful an artist. The piano accompaniment to the selections of both the violin and piano were played by Ralph Colfax, who performed his no means easy task in a very satisfactory manner.

Although not the advertised feature of the concert the appearance of the Elks Glee Club was perhaps the portion of the concert most keenly relished by the audience. Under the capable leadership of James Keeton, Jr., the club has been practicing for weeks on their choral numbers and their appearance last evening was the best which they have yet made, a statement which means much, for the club has had an enviable reputation in the city since its organization. Mr. Harrison appeared with them in the first selection, Kremer's "Gloria" and for it he received a distinct compliment for it was not often that a famous artist will consent to sing with an organization concerning whose work he has no previous personal knowledge. The "Hymn to the Madonna" with Mr. Harrison singing the lead and the chorus providing the accompaniment proved so enjoyable that the number was repeated. Even then the audience did not have its fill and the club was obliged to reappear, singing this time an appealing plantation melody, which was so acceptable that it had to be sung a second time.

That the concert was such a decided success much credit is due Mr. Keeton, who has labored unceasingly with the Glee club, and every member of the organization. It will be the hope of many that the Glee club will again arrange a similar entertainment and that the artists who appeared last evening will again be secured.

BULL AND HIS BOARD BILL

A bill of questioned value, figured Tuesday in supreme court at Binghamton in a motion for a change of venue brought before Justice Theodore R. Tuttle. The action was instituted by P. H. White and Frank Cook of Richfield Springs to recover $3,100 damages and costs they allege to have received from the purchase of a registered Holstein bull purchased from Frank P. Coward of Java, in Wyoming county.

Edward C. Schenker of Buffalo, attorney for the defense, sought to have the place of trial changed from Otsego to Wyoming or Erie county because he said that the sale of cattle took place from there and that about 12 witnesses would be summoned from that vicinity.

M. G. Hubbard of Utica, attorney for the plaintiff, argued against a change of venue, owing to the 15 witnesses for the plaintiff residing in Otsego county. Justice Tuttle requested the attorneys to settle upon some intermediate county where the case could be tried without undue expense to either party and suggested Monroe county for the trial of the action.

The story of the case as told by the opposing attorneys centered upon the purchase of a Holstein bull, which was owned by Mr. Coward who resided in Wyoming county, at a sale of registered stock in Erie county last March. The sale was negotiated by telephone, it was said, and the price paid for the bull was $800.

The bull according to the plaintiff proved of no value for breeding purposes, and suit was brought to recover the purchase money paid as well as about $2,600 which was paid for the upkeep of the bull since the time of the purchase.

Many witnesses, including veterinarians, a professor at Cornell University and breeders of Holstein cattle have been called to testify in the action.

Mr. Van Woert Makes Correction.

The account in today's issue concerning common council proceedings of last evening contains some slight inaccuracies that you will doubtless correct upon advice, particularly as the error has caused me some annoyance at the hands of those not cognizant of the actual facts.

Shortly before the council meeting I submitted to Mayor Miller my written withdrawal of my name as a candidate for re-appointment to the office of police attorney, assigning my proper reasons for such action, and advised him that I would no longer, under present circumstances, discharge the duties of that office, commencing this morning. I may have suggested my remaining in the position for a time longer, which I declined to consider. Then called attention to the fact that my action left the city without a legal prosecuting officer.

At that time Mr. Grant's appointment had not been made and the certificate of appointment having not been executed by the mayor, although the city judge had desired such action for some weeks. Inasmuch as Mr. Grant was formally admitted to the bar January 12th, 1922 (his own statement to me and a matter of public record) and eligible from that moment, it was scarcely accurate to state that his appointment had been delayed until last evening by court proceedings causing his eligibility as there was a council meeting January 17th, 1922, at which time the certificate signed by the City Judge, was before the Mayor for consideration.

Let me add that Mr. Grant has my confidence and respect and I bespeak for him the cordial support of all good citizens in the work which he is taking up. He will have mine.

Very truly yours,
Lee D. VanWoert.

A Horse Owner's View.

Editor Star—At the risk, perhaps, of being considered a back number, I am moved to say a word about the highways known as state roads, in regard to their use by horses and horse-drawn vehicles. I suppose it will be generally admitted as a fact that roads are generally built, are not calculated, by reason of their hard and glassy surface, to give a foothold to horses that will enable them to exert their energy to advantage in moving heavy loads, or indeed to travel at all over such roads with safety and ease.

If any person is disposed to doubt this, then such denial is contrary to experience. I do not think I am alone in saying this. Nearly, if not quite all the so-called state roads, with perhaps some trifling changes, were public highways long before they were state roads, and were open to travellers alike, whether with wagons or sleighs, foot or on horseback—or with automobiles when these began to appear. When the building of improved roads first began to be advocated and urged, the ease with which horses were supposed to be able to move heavy loads over them, was the stock argument in their favor, and printed "propaganda" in newspapers and other publications, often illustrated, depicted the ease with which farmers and others could deliver large loads of hay and other country produce to town markets.

These supposed advantages can hardly be claimed for such roads as are now maintained. It is true that we have the automobile and the motor truck, but the former is a pleasure vehicle and the motor truck is not always and necessarily the cheapest transportation either for very short hauls or very long ones, or for every body.

Farmers as a class are obliged to keep horses, whether they can use them on the state roads or not, and not all can afford, if they desired, the cost of a truck to go 5 or 10 miles on the state road. If anybody expects that, why should he? I have heard that the motor vehicle interests have made their boasts that they would have as complete and undivided possession of the state roads as a railroad line of its tracks and right of way, and they have about made good, but why should they? We have heard about the "side drive," but it doesn't seem to be much in evidence yet, nor likely to be very soon. In the meantime, it would seem as if something might be done in the way of surfacing these state roads so as to give those who want to use horses on them a chance to do so with convenience and safety. Just what this shall be let the road authorities decide.

WHEN MOTOR CARS WERE FEW

Purchase of Essex Coach by F. H. Monroe, Pioneer Automobileist, Recalls Days of First Motor "Wagons" in Oneonta — J. L. Bowdish Owns the First Car.

Frank H. Monroe, one of the first persons in Oneonta to own an automobile, has purchased of the Wilbur Motors corporation a new Essex coach, the car looking as good to him when he witnessed its unloading at the station yesterday that he immediately acquired possession. An Essex coach was also purchased by H. F. Palmer of Wells Bridge.

Since his purchase of a Locomobile car over 20 years ago, Mr. Monroe has owned, including his recent purchase, nine machines, a Locomobile, a Franklin, three Buicks, a Marquette, an Overland, and two Essexes. His purchase of yesterday, when his knowledge of motor vehicles is considered, is a distinct compliment to the Essex car.

Although Mr. Monroe is a pioneer among local automobile owners, the honor of possessing the first automobile in Oneonta is held by John L. Bowdish, of 38 Ford avenue. On December 7, 1900, Mr. Bowdish received, through Roy W. Whipple of Binghamton, a Locomobile, costing $750. The car came knocked down and packed in two crates and had to be assembled by Mr. Bowdish. The car was a steamer and could make about 20 miles an hour. Mr. Bowdish states that the Swart Hollow road had no terrors for his machine.

The Star of December 8, 1900, has this interesting comment to make concerning the car: "J. L. Bowdish leads Oneonta in the purchase of an automobile. The wagon is a handsome one, with all the up-to-date features. Lower Main street is noted for its center line and that locality is certainly in the front now, having the only automobile in town."

The next car in town was also a

Locomobile and was sold by Mr. Bowdish, who had the local agency, to Van S. Pruyn. Mr. Monroe was probably the next possessor of a car. The claimant of having the first gasoline car in the town, an Oldsmobile, goes to Arthur M. Butts.

NASH FOUR PRICES REDUCED

C. W. Nash has announced a sweeping price cut on all Nash Four models. "I feel the time has come when every automobile manufacturer as well as manufacturers and merchants in all other industries should cut their prices to the quick," said Mr. Nash. "They should all be willing to accept a smaller profit than they have ever accepted before in order to bring about the final reconstruction of the country."

"With this reduction and others made recently by various large automobile manufacturers, the public should feel confident that automobile prices are now at rock bottom. I feel that those large automobile manufacturers who have now reduced their prices to the lowest possible level and who are now accepting a dangerously small margin of profit will find it necessary to increase prices in the future rather than to make any further price reduction."

"I believe further that the public will be quick to recognize these conditions and will buy the product of leading and well entrenched automobile manufacturers with renewed confidence in values they offer. This all means stabilization of the motor car market and improved business conditions for automobile distributors and dealers throughout the coming spring and summer."

A "REFRESHFUL" EVENING

Everything Continues to Make Chamber of Commerce Meeting Friday Night an Enjoyable Event—Public Invited to Attend.

Refreshments in the form of "hot dogs" will be served at the annual meeting of Oneonta Chamber of Commerce Friday evening in Municipal hall, the board of directors decided at their meeting Tuesday afternoon upon the suggestion of several directors whose faith in the drawing power of such edible was won by their popularity with the crowd at the recent Athletic Association meeting.

Refreshment and brief reports by the president, secretary and treasurer, a refreshing address by Bradley Fuller esq. of Utica on the Dairymen's League Co-operative Association's plan, a refreshing report by the Election Committee, and refreshing suggestions by members as to activities which should be undertaken in its program of work, will comprise the balance of the evening's program. A "refreshful" evening is anticipated. An invitation to the public at large to attend the meeting was extended by the board of directors, believing that a number of citizens not members of the Chamber may be interested in hearing Mr. Fuller's explanation of the plan which has somewhat revolutionized the means of marketing dairy products in New York state. Dairymen and other farmers are especially invited. The talk is particularly intended, however, for citizens of Oneonta whose possible misapprehensions as to the pooling plan is detrimental to the best interests of the league in the opinion of leaders in that organization.

Ballots in the final election of the Chamber continued to come in large numbers Tuesday, more than 175 votes having been cast by Tuesday evening. The polls do not close until Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock so that at least 100 more ballots will be cast, it is expected.

The directors at the final meeting of the present board Tuesday approved the report of the treasurer for presentation at the annual meeting and discussed other matters. BOY SCOUT ANNIVERSARY

FITTINGLY CELEBRATED AT SCOUT HEADQUARTERS AND COMMUNITY HOUSE.

Inspirational Address by C. A. Gammons of New York, Scout Executive for New York and New Jersey at the Public Meeting—Members Refreshed Scout Oath.

On my honor I will do my best—
1. To do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout Law.
2. To help other people at all times.
3. To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight.

Above is the Boy Scout Oath and in company with the 420,000 other Scouts in the United States, the Scouts of Oneonta assembled at the Community house last evening and first in their own quarters and later at the public meeting in the Community house at 8 o'clock reaffirmed this oath. This was done in celebration of the 12th anniversary of the establishment of the organization in this country.

Following the reaffirmation of the oath by the members of the two well organized troops there was an address by C. A. Gammons of New York, executive head of the organization in New York and New Jersey. In opening his address, Mr. Gammons told briefly of the success of the organization in this country and of the needs of greater interest in and work for boys and then spoke a work of encouragement to those interested in the organization in Oneonta, saying that the problems here are quite similar to those in every city of America. The speaker then turned his attention to the Scouts present and made an interesting address, taking as his text the last pledge of the oath: "On my honor I will do my best to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight." About this he grouped many very apt illustrations of those he saw, he expressed a conviction that in the case of many of the inmates, they are not alone to blame for being there.

Boys are naturally inclined to gather in gangs, said the speaker, and the trouble with many of them is that they get in the wrong and become what many style as gangsters. Boy Scout troops afford boys an opportunity to get in with the right gang and under the best of environs and becoming the best citizens of the land. The activities of the troops take them out in the open and following the Scout law they become trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent.

He cited the experiences of Christy Matthews, saying that what made him a great ball pitcher was his control, he practiced it until he was able to put the ball over within an inch of where he desired as a usual thing. This is true of boys by doing the right thing it becomes second nature, and nothing else enters his thoughts. Morally straight means a life controlled, and this is the requirement for all that makes for true success. The boy who gains control of himself wins, and this Scout activities assist him in acquiring, said the speaker in closing.

Later Mr. Gammons conferred with the Scout council relative to the activities in Oneonta and said that there are men here, when they come to appreciate what the Scout life will do for boys will be willing to become Scoutmasters and by being his brothers to the boys will aid materially in making them useful members of society and thus perform a service that they can do in no other activity.

On Sunday evening at the union service in the First Methodist church the subject will be presented by a speaker from a neighboring city who is interested in boys.

To Construct Theatre in Oneonta Hotel Building

Schine Theatrical Corporation, Owners of Strand, Close Deal to Lease Present Dining Room and Will Soon Start Work on New Theatre to Cost At Least $50,000

In announcing yesterday that the Schine Theatrical corporation, which owns the Strand theatre here and attractive playhouses in several other cities, had leased that portion of the Oneonta hotel now occupied by the dining room and serving room and would, as soon as final details are arranged, convert it into a motion picture theatre at a cost of approximately $50,000, J. M. Schine, general manager of the company, put at rest rumors current about the streets yesterday that the Schine people were financially interested in the theatre and business block which James J. Byard announced Tuesday would be built on the Wilbur plot at the corner of Main street and Ford avenue.

When questioned by a Star representative yesterday in regard to the rumor, Mr. Schine denied most emphatically that his concern was interested in any other local theatre enterprise and gave out the plans for the theatre in the hotel building. Mr. Schine further stated that his company would attempt to sell no stock locally, saying that his company was able to finance from within, and also believed that the general public does not profit from investments in theatrical enterprises.

The deal for the leasing of the hotel property has been pending for nearly a year but it was not until yesterday that negotiations had progressed to a point where an announcement could be made. The papers were drawn yesterday by Attorney Owen C. Becker, acting for Mr. Stanford, and will be submitted to the attorneys of the Schine corporation for their approval.

Plans for the theatre have been drawn by Architect Henry S. Moul of Gloversville with the assistance of Mr. DeRosa of New York city, who has had charge of the erection of many houses in the Keith circuit. The drawings were inspected yesterday by the Star representative. They call for the remodeling of the dining room and serving room to provide a theatre which will have a seating capacity of over 1,000 and the interior of which will be an exact replica of the beautiful Cameo Theatre recently built by B. S. Moss at 42nd street and Broadway, New York city. According to Mr. Schine, the theatre will be as beautiful and as well equipped as any motion picture house in the country.

The theatre will extend from Main street to the back wall of the hotel and will be 115 feet deep and approximately 44 feet wide. Eight doors will provide ingress from the street and will be surmounted by a canopy and electrical signs that will make the portion of Main street resemble the "Gay White Way." The plans call for over 716 seats on the auditorium floor and the remainder in a balcony under consideration. The seats will be upholstered in a material that will be under consideration. The seats will be upholstered in a material that will be under consideration. The seats will be upholstered in a material that will be under consideration.

SUICIDE AT MT. VISION

Dexter E. Oakes, Native of Oneonta, Shoots Himself Tuesday Evening—Was Melancholy and Mentally Unbalanced.

Dexter E. Oakes, a native of Oneonta and about 24 years of age, committed suicide at about 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the home of G. A. Gardner, who resides in the town of New Lisbon about three miles west of Mt. Vision. Oakes, who was notified, deputized Dr. Wright to act for him in the case, and the latter certified that a gunshot wound, self-inflicted with suicidal intent, was the cause of death, and gave the necessary burial permit. The burial will be in the Mt. Vision cemetery at 1 p. m. on Friday.

The deceased, who was a son of the late Scott and Cora (Wasson) Oakes of this city, was 24 years of age. For the past twelve years he had been a member of the family of Mr. Gardner, and it had been noted that for some time his mind had been at intervals unbalanced. Prior to Tuesday he had been in Oneonta for several days. He returned to the Gardner home at about 2 o'clock on that day and later in the afternoon went to the house of a neighbor, borrowing on some pretext a large army rifle. On his return he told the women of the house that he was going to shoot himself if some one else would not do it for him. He then went to his room on the second floor, and the frightened women called a man working about the house, but before he could arrive the discharge of the gun was heard. Oakes had apparently set upon the edge of the bed, with the muzzle of the gun resting against his body. Death was undoubtedly instantaneous, the ball passing through his left breast.

Mr. Oakes is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Charles Greer of West End, this city, and Mrs. Jerry Kierns of Groton; and by one brother, Fred S. Oakes of Devon, Conn. Friends of the family will deeply sympathize with them in his tragic death.

PRESENTED WITH HUMIDOR

Major Jackson the Recipient of Hand-some Gift at Armory Last Evening—Evidence of Esteem in Which He is Held by Company G. His Old Command.

In appreciation of his long and faithful service as commanding officer of Company G and as a token of the esteem in which he is held by the members of the organization, Major F. M. H. Jackson was presented with a handsome mahogany cigar humidor by the company at their roast beef dinner in the armory mess hall last evening. The presentation speech was made by Captain Louis M. Baker who, in well chosen words, expressed the feelings of the company toward Major Jackson. The latter responded most feelingly, voicing his appreciation of the gift and stating that, although no longer officially connected with the company, its interests would always remain his.

Following the dinner, which was commingled with the typical of hungry soldiers, and the presentation of the humidor, Lieut. Colonel Parish, who was also present as a guest of honor, gave a talk on the rifle practices which are soon to be held. Colonel Parish, who is assistant ordnance officer of the 27th division, is as well informed on the subject of marksmanship as any man in the state and his suggestions to the men will prove of much value when they get upon the range. Colonel Parish spoke of the marvelous record of the company in the days when it led the entire country in marksmanship and urged that an endeavor be made to approach if not equal the record of the members of the old company, of whom an English general said during the World war that whenever they pulled a trigger a German fell. Major G. W. Augustin, who was to have been another honor guest, was unable to be present.

The regular drill session was held after the dinner with 90 per cent of the strength of the company on the floor.

HOUSED IN MODERN PLANT

Oneonta Bottling Works' New Building on Lewis Street Equipped with Modern Machinery and Prepared for Large Summer Business.

Among the numerous manufacturing plants of the city probably none are more fully equipped with the latest and most up-to-date machinery than that of the Oneonta Bottling works of Messrs. Shearer and Scatchard, now occupying their new building at 7 Lewis street, erected and equipped for them and for the production of their well known Klipnocker brand of soft drinks, so popular not only in this city but in this section of the state. While the sales of the concern were large last summer the facilities were not sufficient at all times to meet requirements promptly, and the coming season will find it equipped to meet all demands and promptly.

Notable among the features of the equipment is the perfect sanitation and the facility with which machinery produces the finished product. One of the costliest machines in the plant is the bottle washer, the only hand operation required being the placing of the bottles to be sterilized upon the moving track and their removal after passing through the sterilizer and being thoroughly cleaned and rinsed.

After being placed on the moving track the bottles pass first through a rinsing where water under pressure is forced into and around them and then move on into the washer, which is a real washer, and while within and moving about in a circle hot water containing a solution of caustic soda is projected into them, thoroughly cleansing, and then without removing from the track they pass out through another rinsing and then pass alongside the "filler." An attendant then removes them and placing them under the latter one funnel supplies the requisite syrup and the bottle is pushed along a few inches and from another source filtered carbonated water is then forced into the bottle, the metallic cap by an ingenious device is made in place and is securely fastened, making the bottle airtight and the cherry phosphate and root beer is ready for the case in which the bottle is placed and when the case is filled it is ready at once for delivery to the customer.

The bottle sterilizer has a capacity of 84 dozen bottles per hour and the pace of the other machines is of like capacity. The machines, including the water filter, are of the latest and most approved designs and together they represent a large outlay. They occupy a floor space of little more than 400 square feet, though the work they accomplish with two attendants is large.

The building is two story and basement and a frame structure is 30x40 feet. On the main floor front is the well equipped office and the remainder of that floor is devoted to the manufacturing plant with some floor space devoted to case storage, both empties and filled.

Surplus stock is located on the second floor, where also is located the syrup manufacturing equipment. Only the purest fruit juices and syrups are used and Mr. Scatchard's experience as a pharmacist admirably equips him for supervising this work, to which he devotes the required attention always. In the basement are the heating plants, one for the building and another for supplying hot water, of which a liberal amount is constantly being used.

Purchasers of "pop" may rest assured when offered Klipnocker brand that they are receiving the best goods that the best possible equipment coupled with careful attention and the purest of ingredients that can be purchased will produce.

Tastes vary in many things, but when it comes to coffee, most people agree that Otego coffee is surpassingly good. Put in on the list for the grocer today. Advt. 1w

SUES HOTEL FOR BAGGAGE

Miss Dunham of Oneonta Seeks to Recover From Buffalo Hotel.

At Binghamton on Tuesday of this week a motion for change of venue was made by the defendants, Justice Tuttle, in an action brought by Miss Katherine M. Dunham of Oneonta against the Hotel Statler of Buffalo. The complaint in the action is that in June last the plaintiff, who was a guest of the hotel, lost her baggage through negligence of the hotel management or its employees. Miss Dunham was at that time a delegate from Oneonta to the convention of the National Protective Legion of America. The articles lost are valued in the complaint at $225.

The defendant company was represented by E. C. Schlenker of Buffalo, who asked that the trial be held in Erie county.

Claude Smith of Oneonta, who appears for the plaintiff, argued against a change of venue, requesting that the trial take place in Oneonta, because about 10 witnesses for the plaintiff are residents of Otego county and two are from Binghamton. All these witnesses attended the convention. Justice Theodore R. Tuttle ordered the attorneys to file briefs in the case, reserving decision.
